3. What was the most surprising information you learned from this fact sheet? How does this impact your understanding of the history of oil around the world?
4. How might environmental organizations concerned with the impact of the oil industry use this sort of information to work towards more sustainable and environmentally friendly energy practices around the world?
5. If you were in charge of fixing the so-called "pain at the gas pump" problem, what would you need to do first? How might this action impact your country, the oil industry and environmental groups?
